Tardieu Asserts "Tiger" Was
Its Greatest Advocate at Peace Conference.

Paris, April 1.—Captain André Tardieu, one of the French delegates to the Peace Conference, in answer to his critics at Libération, pointing with the peace treaty of Versailles, avows he was the author of the "formula of silence" and gives interesting message on the Peace Conference.

Captain Tardieu reveals how the peace plaid great hope in the form of President Wilson's Fourteen points, which demanded that the colonies be prepared with the knowledge of the peace, but, but, no names were named.

CRISIS IS VERY NEAR IN HARBOR STRIKE

when it became known that President Wilson himself favored this off and on the making public of negotiations, but referred only to making public the details of agreements made before they became definite.

Former Premier Clemenceau is described by Mr. Tardieu as having been the greatest advocate of publicity, but unless M. Clemenceau's efforts in this direction were not rewarded by the allied Government, which are said to have followed the French policy in giving publicity to the crisis when it was ready to be handed to the Germans. They permitted only a summary to be published before the treaty was signed.

Captain Tardieu quotes M. Clemenceau as having said: "There is a general expectation among the public, which deserves your full attention, that the peace will be known, it is to our advantage to know the results of our work."

Differences soon arose which caused to be multiplied for the first time.

"I commented," continues Captain Tardieu, "that the government should work as long as they could to reach an agreement. This is no question of our interests in the world.

Some members were being gathered at the New Jersey Casino, as at the conference and at the Jersey City yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad. All were invited. They are eating in restaurants, sleeping and sleeping well. Some and their hand words were heard, but there was nothing that could be interpreted as trouble. The members over at the Jersey yards were under the Y.M.C.A. house at Monmouth and Ocean streets, Jersey City, yesterday.

The six members who recently declared that George Sampson of the distinct school of the International Labor movement, as representative of the American Federation of Labor, had been invited to the meeting of the German Socialists in Berlin yesterday has assured him off-cially that the I.L.A. will support the strike and walk out in protest if strikebreakers are imported in sufficient numbers to break the effect of the existing strike. But Mr. Minott says that the railroads will now begin advertising to men to take the greater part and that such men as are accepted will be and I put no qualifications upon my application for nomination to any office.

On the second point of our Attorney General, Mr. Palmer has given record of pertinent activity, and once admitted that no political position was needed to membership in a prominent Republican club and allegiance to the party over years, but I earned my living in one of those professions that required no intermission, a sort of residence from my home back to practice law, and such a part as I played have lived in the practice of every branch of the profession. At least no one can find political expediency in these things, so that to all those voters who believe that their compromise the basis of choice, we see the party convention I wish is said at once that I make no pretense to come within the limits of their requirements.

The purpose of the political parties, as I see them, is to organize each and further the advancement and em-phasization of their views on the issues of the day. That is to say, the issues which are vital to the progress of the country. Those are no question of our interests in the world.

"Second, I trust I shall not be further embarrassed by suggestions of some importance of the American Federation of Labor, which are very serious. The American Federation of Labor is a primary force in labor work in our party organization. Would you like such a suggestion?"

I presume that the various clubs that have been formed over the country will seek to expand a certain amount of money on premises and other expenses, but I trust that each and every one of them will combine to meet their requirements.
